BIR HACHEIM HOLDS OUT

LONDON, Wednesday.—De Gaullist troops, counter-attacking after British armoured units had come to their aid, have thrown back General Rommel's biggest effort yet to subdue the Bir Hacheim fortress at the southern flank of the Allies' Libya line.

For fourteen days the garrison has faced terrific panzer onslaughts. Yesterday, says a special Reuter despatch from Cairo, the Germans filled the air with Stukas and hurled in an increasing number of panzers and infantry from the north, but without success.—(Press Association and Reuter.)

General Rommel's "dead-set" at Bir Hacheim has sound strategy behind it, since this post—set on a plateau and surrounded by dug-in defences and minefields—bars the way of his supply columns to the "Cauldron" forces further north. When waves of infantry and tanks rolled forward to the attack, with Stukas screaming low overhead, the defending artillerymen stood at their posts and opened up a hurricane of fire from their 75's and machine-guns.

Elsewhere, Allied mobile columns still are harassing General Rommel's supply lines from the west, and to the south of the "Cauldron" armoured units have been engaged in a long-range artillery duel.

In sorties spread over the first 14 days' fighting, Allied air forces, acting as "aerial artillery," destroyed more than 1,000 fighting vehicles and supply wagons, shot down 47 aircraft and killed hundreds of Axis troops.—(Press Association and Reuter.)

In general, says a Cairo message, the position at the moment may be summed up as satisfactory for the Allies, though there is no doubt that the tenacity and strength of the Bir Hacheim garrison will be tested still further.—(Reuter.)

"During yesterday," said Wednesday's Royal Air Force communiqué, "operations in Cyrenaica were concentrated over the Bir Hackeim area, where our aircraft attacked enemy armoured units, gun positions and motor transport vehicles. Five Messerschmitt 109s were shot down, and others were probably destroyed. A Heinkel 111 was brought down in the sea off the North African coast on Monday night (June 8th-9th), four members of the crew being captured. During the same night the enemy aerodrome at Heraklion, in Crete, and the Italian naval base at Taranto, in Italy, were raided by our bomber aircraft.

"Our aircraft made further attacks on Heraklion during last night.

"One of our aircraft is missing. Four pilots reported missing in yesterday's communiqué are now known to be safe."

CASUALTIES

A written reply by Mr. Attlee, British Deputy Prime Minister, to a House of Commons question, has disclosed that casualties in the armed forces of the British Empire, from September 3, 1939—the start of the war—to September 2, 1941, total 183,540 in killed, wounded, prisoners and missing.

ARMS PRODUCTION

U.S. AND BRITAINS' OUTPUT

"We are producing to the hilt," said Mr. Oliver Lyttleton, British Minister of Production, in a broadcast in the U.S.A. early to-day. "We have increased our production of all weapons of war, as a whole, by 100 per cent. during the last twelve months alone."

"Donald Nelson and I," he declared, "have been working to gear Birmingham's, Sheffield's, Pittsburg's and Detroit's production into one single engine of destruction."

He gave a vivid picture of Britain stripped for war, and said that, of a population of 33 millions, between the ages of 14 and 65, 22 millions were working full-time either in industry, the armed forces or civil defence, equivalent to the mobilisation of about 60 million people in the United States. They were producing in Britain tanks and other mechanical vehicles at the rate of 257,000 a year—an increase of 350 per cent. over the rate in the last quarter of 1940; 40,000 big guns a year, and supplying them with 25 million rounds of ammunition; millions of small arms and supplying them with 2,0000 million rounds of ammunition. They had increased their aircraft production 100 per cent. above the rate achieved during the last quarter of 1940, and their merchant ship production by 57 per cent.

JAPAN ATTACKS THE ALEUTIANS

"NO CLEAR PICTURE, BUT IT'S GOING ON"

—U.S. SPOKESMAN

LAND, sea and air forces are believed to be engaged in a new Pacific battle, in which Japan is seeking to establish a foothold on the Aleutian Islands, the 150 "stepping-stones," which stretch from Alaska across the Northern Ocean nearly to Siberia. So far, all detailed information comes from Axis sources and is unconfirmed, Press Association and Reuter telegrams say.

Washington's only reference to the Aleutians since the statement by Admiral King, the American Naval Commander-in-Chief, that "something is happening," has been the negative comment of a War Department spokesman, who declined to say anything regarding Tokyo's claim to have captured a number of positions in the group.

The Department, he said, had no knowledge of "attacks throughout the whole string of the Aleutians," as the Japanese allege.

According to the Japanese communiqué, an attack was initiated by naval units in close co-operation with army troops on Sunday. These forces—supported, it may be presumed, by aircraft—are claimed to have "reduced" a number of Allied positions in the islands. In the absence of authentic information it is impossible to form a clear picture of what is happening. Berlin says that a number of points have been occupied, but Army circles in London suggest that "reduction" is a loose term, particularly apt in an uncertain situation which may later call for a climb-down.

Reuter's Correspondent in Washington stated last night that the War Department spokesman, commenting on the reported attack, said: "We have no information about any Japanese on Alaskan soil," adding: "Certainly none of our inhabited areas, islands or rocks, are troubled with uninvited visitors up to this time . . .

"We have not too clear a picture of what's going on, but it's going on," he said.

WAR COUNCIL ELATED

Members of the Pacific War Council met in conference with President Roosevelt at the White House yesterday, and left visibly elated over the account of the Japanese defeat in the Midway battle, says Associated Press.

Lord Halifax said that President Roosevelt gave the Council what information he had about the Midway engagement, but he was not at liberty to disclose the details.

Asked what the Council's reaction was, he grinned broadly, and said: "You can guess that."

Mr. Nash, New Zealand Minister, said the report was "full of good news right through—as good as we've had; perhaps the best we've had. We could do with more like it."

Dr. Loudon, Netherlands Ambassador, said that in consequence of the battle the situation in the Netherlands East Indies "may take a new turn."

Asked about Axis reports of Japanese landings in the Aleutian Islands, Dr. Loudon said that it was more important to remember what the Japanese Press said on Tuesday about the necessity of being prepared for bad news. "What we heard about the Aleutian Islands was encouraging, too," he added.

Lord Halifax told journalists that President Roosevelt had also given the Council an up-to-date picture of the supply situation.

JAPAN'S CLAIMS

The Japanese Imperial Headquarters communiqué runs:—"Japanese naval units operating in the Eastern Pacific carried out a surprise attack on Dutch Harbour, Alaska, as well as on the entire Aleutian Island group, and continued raids on enemy positions there on June 4 and 5.

"Naval units also carried out fierce attacks on Midway Island on June 4, inflicting heavy damage on enemy fleet, reinforcements in that area, and also heavily damaging naval and air installations, as well as the enemy force. In addition, Japanese naval units, in close co-operation with army troops, reduced a number of enemy positions in the Aleutian Islands, and are now continuing operations there.

"The Imperial Japanese Navy, operating round Midway Island, sank one aircraft carrier of the Enterprise type and another of the Hornet type (both 19,000 tons), while 120 enemy aircraft were shot down. Important military objectives were destroyed.

"In the Dutch Harbour region fourteen enemy 'planes were either shot down or destroyed, while one large enemy transport was sunk. Japanese units also bombed and destroyed groups of heavy oil tanks at two places, setting them on fire, as well as one large hangar. Japanese losses were one aircraft carrier lost, one aircraft carrier heavily damaged, one cruiser damaged, and 35 'planes still missing."

Pearl Harbour reported early yesterday, says the Associated Press, that there had been no reports of activity in the Dutch Harbour area since last week's raid.

"LOOKING FOR NEWS"

The United States Navy Department declined to comment yesterday on Japanese claims to have sunk two United States aircraft carriers and a large transport around Midway Island and Dutch Harbour. The claims were described, however, by the Naval Spokesman as another "fishing expedition" to try to extract information regarding the whereabouts of units of the Fleet.—(Reuter.)

Latest American tabulation of losses in the Midway battle is:—

Japan.—Aircraft carriers—Two or three destroyed with all their 'planes. One or two badly damaged. Battleships—Three damaged at least, one badly. Cruisers—Four damaged, two heavily. Destroyers—One sunk. Transports—Three damaged.

United States.—One aircraft carrier hit and some of its 'planes lost. One destroyer sunk, with small loss of life.

A claim that, following the Midway Island battle, America had only one or two aircraft carriers, and was now unable to raid Japan, was made yesterday by Rear-Admiral Toshio Matsunaga, a member of the House of Representatives, and Rear-Admiral Teizo Sannami, Chief of the Marine Section of the Japan Airways, says a Reuter message from Tokyo. The attacks on the Aleutian Islands and Midway had been made before they could be used as bases for American attacks on Japan.

CRIPPLED SHIPS

The American assertion that the Japanese naval units most heavily damaged in the Midway battle will be unable to return to their base is no exaggeration, reports a competent observer, according to a Reuter message from Chungking. Fearing pursuit by American aircraft, the ships were compelled to flee in all directions, leaving everything to fate, and there was no doubt that all the Japanese aircraft were lost. Those on board the aircraft-carriers sank, and those which had taken off had no landing bases left.

2,000 AXIS 'PLANES AT SEBASTOPOL

GERMAN OFFENSIVE IN KHARKOV AREA

THE 214th day of the Sebastopol siege and the sixth of Marshal von Manstein's latest assault to overcome the famous Black Sea base, finds the Germans still held up on the ramparts of the defence belt surrounding the city, says Press Association and Reuter.

According to Berlin, two thousand 'planes are supporting the two spearheads of the attack through the mountain valleys east and north of the fortifications.

Fighting last night was raging on the same positions where the Axis armies were challenged and held by the defenders five days' ago. German reports, which say that Marshal von Manstein is between seven and fourteen miles from the city, show that the harbours of Inkerman—at the end of the spacious Sebastopol anchorage—and Gory remain in Russian hands.

According to Stockholm reports, as the battle sways towards the peak of intensity reached at Kerch, the Axis is losing a daily average of about 2,500 in killed alone.

German losses outside Sebastopol—over 55,000 in the great 17-day battle before Christmas—may yet rival the 127,000 Russians who died in the siege of 1854, and whose bones rest in the common grave near the harbour shore. Reinforcements rushing through the narrow Perekop gap in the north to aid Marshal von Manstein are being heavily attacked by Stormovik dive-bombers and fighters.

In spite of the extreme violence of the German attacks, the Sebastopol battle is raging in the same positions as five days ago, reports Red Star. The Germans continue to attack Russian positions at the city's approaches, and one Soviet unit in the last 24 hours repelled many assaults. In a Russian counter-attack the Germans lost 800 officers and men in killed alone. Much booty was taken.

THREE DAYS' BATTLE

For three days the Germans have made desperate attempts to capture two heights. This battle is still raging, but the Germans are marking time. In one raid, Stormovik pilots destroyed five German tanks and four mortar batteries and wiped out about two companies of infantry.—(Reuter.)

German radio reported last night that the Soviets counter-attacked throughout yesterday morning in the Sebastopol area. These attacks, strongly supported by artillery, were beaten off after hard fighting, it was added, and the German troops succeeded in gaining ground and occupying several fortified posts.—(Reuter.)

The Luftwaffe is now raiding and giving direct support to the German infantry from Murmansk, in the far North, down to the Crimea, according to German News Agency claims yesterday. At Sebastopol the Germans claim unofficially to be using nearly 2,000 'planes. On the central front bombers and Stukas have attacked Soviet troop concentrations. North of Lake Ilmen Soviet infantry, thrusting forward under the protection of tanks, were bombed with heavy losses.—(Reuter.)

GERMAN OFFENSIVE

A new drive on the Khakrov front by Field Marshal von Bock was disclosed by the Moscow communiqué early this morning, says Reuter. "During Wednesday," it was stated, "fighting was against the German Fascist troops, who had passed to the offensive."

The communiqué did not indicate whether this action — begun 10 days after Marshal Timoshenko disrupted the German plan for a blow against the Rostov gateway to the Caucasus—was a resumption of Marshal von Bock's fierce thrust against the Red Army's southern flank in Izyum-Barvenkovo sector.

CAUCASUS INVADED?

GERMANS LAND AT TAMAN

A Reuter telegram from Vichy early this morning stated:—An Ankara despatch to the Vichy News Agency says:—German troops are reported to have landed on the Taman peninsula on the eastern side of the Kerch Straits.

The Axis forces are said to have occupied Anspal.

The Vichy Agency is probably referring to Anapa, a health resort on the coast, fifty miles from the nearest point in the Kerch peninsula, and only twenty-five miles from Novorossisk, chief Caucasian port for the Soviet Black Sea Fleet. It has a fine beach suitable for landing.—(Reuter.)

The Soviet High Command, Reuter's Military Correspondent writes, has long realised the possibility of an attempt to invade the Caucasus from the Crimea.

SYNOD FAILS TO ELECT BISHOP

THREE ABORTIVE VOTES

THE Diocesan Synod of Down and Connor and Dromore met in Belfast yesterday to elect a bishop in room of the late Dr. MacNeice. The Primate (Most Rev. Dr. Gregg) presided. The voting was inconclusive, and the appointment will be left to the House of Bishops.

Before the Synod proceeded to vote the Primate announced that the Dean of Derry, whose name was on the select list, and the Bishop of Tuam (Right Rev. Dr. Crozier), who had been approached by some electors, would not accept office if elected.

The total number of clerical votes recorded in the first vote was 208, and the two-thirds majority necessary for the election of a bishop was 139.

The voting was: Dean of Belfast, 75; Dean of Down, 69; Dean of Derry, 9; Canon Hodges, 48; Bishop of Limerick, 4; Bishop of Killaloe, 1; Bishop of Meath, 1; Bishop of Cashel, 1.

The total number of lay votes recorded was 366, and the necessary two-thirds majority was 244.

The voting was: Dean of Belfast, 130; Dean of Down, 168; Dean of Derry, 29; Canon Hodges, 24; Bishop of Limerick, 5; Bishop of Tuam, 4; Bishop of Derry, 1; Bishop of Kilmore, 2; Bishop of Ossory, 1; Archdeacon of Dublin, 1.

The Synod then took a second vote, but it also proved abortive, none of the candidates receiving the requisite two-thirds majority.

The number of clerical votes recorded was 199, the voting being:—Dean of Down 78, Dean of Belfast 81, Canon Hodges 30, Dean of Derry 9, Bishop of Limerick 1. Three hundred and twenty lay votes were recorded, the voting being:—Dean of Down 174, Dean of Belfast 113, Canon Hodges 22, Dean of Derry 9, Bishop of Limerick 2.

The Primate then announced that the matter would pass to the House of Bishops unless the Synod, by a majority of both orders, decided that they would have a third vote.

The third vote also proved inconclusive. The Dean of Derry got 88 clerical votes and 112 lay votes; the Dean of Down, 86 clerical votes and 175 lay votes; and Canon Hodges, 27 clerical votes and 20 lay votes.

BOUGHT IDENTITY CARDS

Strange stories were told at Newry Special Court yesterday, when Patrick James Flynn, Western Edge, Kinsale, Co. Cork; John J. Coghlan, Curry lane, Limerick; Denis Butler, Ashe street, Dublin, and Brendan Hickey, Mark's alley, Dublin, were charged with entering the six counties without approved documents of identity. Flynn said he bought a Northern identity card (made out in the name of Patrick Murphy, Legmoylan, Silverbridge) in Dundalk for 6s., Loughlin, who has a wife and five children, got his card under similar circumstances, whilst Butler and Hickey said they got theirs in Dublin.

U.S. SHIPS WITH HOME FLEET

The King, during a three days visit to the British Home Fleet, has been aboard an American battleship and cruiser serving with the force under the command of Admiral Sir John Tovey, the C.-in-C. The United States warships have been attached to the British Home Fleet for some time, but their presence has been a complete secret up to now, states a P.A. War Correspondent.

Wednesday.—Thirty-one more Czechs were executed to-day—twenty-five in Prague and six in Brno—Prague Radio announced to-night. The total executions is thus increased to 306.—(Reuter.)

U.S. Red Cross Delegates on Irish Visit

"I HAVE been tremendously impressed with the fine work your organisation has done in such a short time," said Mr. George Allen, American Red Cross Mission representative, when he, with his colleague, Dr. Daniel P. O'Brien, had completed the inspection of a parade and display of some of the activities of the Irish Red Cross at Dun Laoghaire last night, on the eve of their departure from Ireland.

The distinguished visitors were guests at dinner in the Royal Marine Hotel of the local branch of the Irish Red Cross, at which Mr. Justice Conor A. Maguire, President of the Society, who presided, said that the visit of the U.S. Mission to this country had been tremendously appreciated. During their stay they had come to understand how wholeheartedly the Irish Red Cross desired to work with them.

The Right Rev. Mons. Boylan, P.P., V.G., Dun Laoghaire, joined in welcoming the visitors.

Mr. Rory Henderson, County Dublin Director of the Irish Red Cross, said that he was sorry their visitors could not stay over for the big mass parade in Dublin on Sunday next.

Mr. Allen, responding, said that in the American, Irish and other Red Cross Societies he saw an instrument through which they could build up a better world in the future.

GREAT CHANGE

Speaking to an Irish Times reporter, Mr. Allen said he was tremendously impressed. Of his trip through Ireland, he said: "I had no idea that it was possible for two countries to be so much alike as America and Ireland. Everybody made me feel so much at home that I felt I was in another State in America. After spending some time in Ireland, he added, I now understand how it is that the majority of our Government officials in America are of Irish parentage. It is easily understood. Above all, my wish is that we will be able to go on working with the Irish Red Cross Society, both of us striving to achieve what we wish to accomplish."

Dr. O'Brien spoke of the tremendous changes which had taken place in Ireland since his first visit in 1923. He saw a great improvement in housing, in hospitals, and particularly in the appearance of the young people. "I am," he said, "looking forward to most important developments in relation to the health of the nation, in which I hope the Irish Red Cross Society will play their share as I believe they can play it. There are many things that the Society can do in peace time in regard to health and well-being, and I am sure that the Society will continue to contribute its share to the development and well-being of the nation."

The President of the High Court (Mr. Justice Conor Maguire) and Dr. P. O'Brien

GASTRO-ENTERITIS

The Irish Times is able to announce this morning the names of members of the Advisory Committee set up by the Minister for Local Government and Public Health to deal with the problem of gastro-enteritis.

They are:—Dr. C. J. McSweeney, Medical Superintendent, Cork Street Fever Hospital; Dr. W. P. O'Callaghan, bacteriologist at the same hospital; Dr. R. A. Q. O'Meara, Dr. M. J. Russell, M.O.H.; Professor J. McGrath, M.D., M.Sc.; Dr. F. N. Elcock, Dr. Stritch (city bacteriologist), Professor John M. O'Connor and Professor W. E. Jessop.

The committee is to seek a more precise knowledge of the actiology and prevention of this disease, which became epidemic in Dublin in mid-summer, 1941, principally among bottle-fed babies under one year, and is thought to have been caused by a virus. It is feared that hot weather and flies may cause a recurrence this summer.

YUNNAN (CHINA) Wednesday.—Sir Mark Aitchison Young, Governor of Hong Kong, has been transferred from the Crown Colony to Shanghai. This is the first information of his whereabouts since the fall of the fortress last December.—(Reuter.)

Dublin Drapery Trade Protest

Shops To Be Closed For One Day

THE Dublin drapery trade has decided to organise a mass demonstration against the clothes rationing Order, and in support of the protest, all clothing and outfitting shops in the city will be closed on Monday next, and a procession of employers and workers will march to the Mansion House, where a protest meeting will be held.

Decision to make the protest followed a meeting of the Drapers' Chamber of Trade yesterday—the second in two days—after efforts to secure a personal interview with Mr. Lemass, Minister for Supplies, for representatives of the trade, had failed.

Meanwhile, rapidly growing apprehension in the trade and among distributive workers and clerks at the effects of the Order was reflected in demonstrations by city workers, who, leaving their business houses, marched yesterday to the headquarters in Parnell square of the Irish Union of Distributive Workers and Clerks. A largely attended meeting of the Irish Merchant Tailors' Association in Dublin yesterday sent a telegram to the Minister for Supplies, asking him to receive a deputation from the Association to-day.

Replaceable Goods

Following the failure, yesterday, to secure an interview with Mr. Lemass, the Drapers' Chamber of Trade sent a telegram to Mr. de Valera, requesting his intervention. The request was endorsed by the Irish Union of Distributive Workers and Clerks; but up to last evening no reply had been received by the Chamber, and there had been no development in the matter.

Three main points concerning the position were dealt with at yesterday's Chamber of Trade meeting, at which the decision to hold a protest demonstration was taken. They were: (1) Goods are unnecessarily being withheld from the public; (2) unemployment is unnecessarily being created; and (3) financial difficulties for business are unnecessarily being created. Enlarging on them in a statement after the meeting, Mr. E. A. McGuire, of Messrs. Brown, Thomas and Co., who presided, said that on the basis of the existing rations, present heavy supplies would last from two and a half to six years at a conservative estimate. Many lines in the trade still were replaceable, and should be removed from the list of rationed goods, and it was felt that perishable and seasonable goods should not be rationed. It was desirable, he said, to give unrestricted selling rights to goods that could be replaced, in order that it might be possible to secure further supplies which were available. There was no real shortage of artificial silk goods which still could readily be imported. "The number of coupons allowed," he said, "unnecessarily prevents the public from buying requirements which are available in large quantities, and it is to be noted that the Irish coupons have only half the value of their English counterpart. Then there are heavy taxation and rates to be paid in respect of last year, following extra buying, which can only be paid out of cash which cannot be found now—not to speak of bank charges, wages, etc."

Touching upon the possibility of unemployment, Mr. McGuire said that there was no doubt in their minds that the unnecessary application of rationing to goods that were plentiful would cause unemployment. "In England," he said, "where 78 coupons is equal in value to 142 of ours, it is in their interest to stop home trade in order to release workers for war industries and to reduce spending. It is in our Government's interest to keep home trade going, there being no alternative employment, and displaced workers being forced on to the dole. The scheme, in its present form, would necessitate a 75 per cent. reduction in staffs."

Turning to financial difficulties, he recalled that the Minister for Supplies urged traders to take in huge stocks of goods some time ago. The drapery trade supported his appeal to the extent of borrowing or going into debt with suppliers. These debts can be liquidated only by reasonable sale, which is not possible under this scheme. Much of the huge stocks on hand is unpaid for, and there is a serious financial situation being created by this needlessly drastic, sudden and disastrous Order. "It is our considered opinion that the scheme as it now stands is unworkable, and for that reason we have declined to meet officials of the Department. A meeting with officials is all right when we come down to details after the major matter of principle has been discussed.

Mr. McGuire revealed that, following their inability to secure an interview with the Minister and their telegram to Mr. de Valera, the Chamber took the matter up with the Fine Gael and Labour Parties, and finally decided to hold a protest demonstration and to take such constitutional action as was possible to secure an amendment of the scheme.

DRAPERY TRADE REQUEST

The following is the text of a telegram which has been sent by the Drapers' Chamber of Trade and the drapery union to An Taoiseach at his private address:—

"On behalf of the clothing and distributing trades, employers and workers, we desire an immediate interview. We have failed to interview the Minister for Supplies re grave flaws in the rationing scheme, involving the almost complete destruction of the trade and employment in our industry."

"Signed: E. A. McGuire, Chairman, Drapers' Chamber of Trade, and M. Drumgoole, Secretary, Irish Union of Distributive Workers and Clerks."

WORKERS' FEARS

An official of the Distributive Workers told an Irish Times reporter that some firms were said to be contemplating the dismissal of two-thirds of their staffs, and several employes in city business premises were informed yesterday that their firms would be closing down. "There is apprehension all over the country," he said, "and the workers believe that only about 25 per cent. of them will be needed in the distributive trade, while the prospect for factory workers is very poor.

Ruin for the tailoring trade was prophesied by an official of the Irish Merchant Tailors' Association, who said that if the prohibition against delivering suits already made or partly made were maintained many of their members would be put out of business.

TRADERS WARNED

Traders are warned by the Department of Supplies in an advertisement that it is a serious offence to supply to retail customers rationed yarn, cloth or clothing without obtaining the appropriate number of coupons required by the Rationing Order.

Battle of Tanks

The battle of tanks in Libya shows no sign of abatement. On the contrary, the violence of the "Axis" attacks on the Allied positions seems to have increased, in spite of the unfavourable conditions of the weather, and the strain which has been imposed upon the contending forces during the last fortnight. Marshal Rommel, the German Commander-in-Chief, has not yet achieved his main objective—namely, to reach the coast and either capture or isolate Tobruk. His armoured divisions have been used to marked effect, and the British have sustained heavy losses both in men and in material; but although for a fortnight the Allied lines have been subjected to a terrific hammering from tanks and dive-bombing aircraft, Marshal Rommel's advance has been restricted, and such gains as he has secured have been won at heavy cost. The Allied line runs from Gazala, on the North African coast, to Bir Hacheim, a point in the midst of the Western Desert, which is held by de Gaullist troops. In order to safeguard his supplies, Marshal Rommel must reduce this stronghold, which is set upon a plateau; and during the last few days the de Gaullist troops who are defending it have been subjected to fierce attacks, which have continued through night and day. Communication between the main Allied forces and the garrison at Bir Hacheim is admitted to be difficult; but the British have managed to send a certain number of armoured units to the assistance of the de Gaullists, who, so far, have defied all attempts to force them into submission. Several demands for surrender have been rejected sans phrase. This isolated garrison is making a notable stand, and its resistance has compelled the admiration even of its German and Italian adversaries. It is impossible to forecast the result of the operations around Bir Hacheim. British communiqués from Cairo state that "the tenacity and strength of the garrison will be tested still further," and there can be small doubt that Marshal Rommel is increasing his efforts to compel its surrender. From the "Axis" point of view, much depends on the capture of Bir Hacheim. So long as it continues to be held by the de Gaullists, no real progress can be made by the German and Italian troops; and its continued resistance is giving the British an opportunity not only to repair their damaged tanks, but to bring up reinforcements from Egypt. Undoubtedly, the "Axis" forces have suffered severe losses since they opened their attack two weeks ago. The British claim that more than one thousand German and Italian fighting vehicles have been destroyed, and that forty-seven aircraft have been brought down. British losses also have been severe. Marshal Rommel has been throwing all his armoured strength into the battle. Following his former tactics, he has been attacking consistently, even when technically on the defensive; and, in order to hold his thrusts in check, the British commander has been forced to make heavy sacrifices. According to the British bulletins the general situation is "satisfactory for the Allies"; but it is far too soon yet to form an accurate estimate of the results of the campaign. All that is certain is that Tobruk still is in British hands, and that the threat to Egypt and the Middle East in general does not seem to be so formidable as it was ten days ago. In the long run everything probably will depend on the strength of the human and mechnical reserves that have not yet been thrown into the struggle. The battle in Libya cannot end in a stale-mate this time. Either Marshal Rommel will achieve his objects, capture Tobruk, and open the way for an assault on Egypt, or the Afrikakorps, on the success of which the "Axis" Powers set so much store, will cease to exist as a serious factor in North African warfare.

Dancing

In the District Court recently a witness in a case remarked that he thought another witness must have been an official of some sort, because he looked "too old to be a dancer." When questioned further, the witness admitted that he did not know precisely at what age a man became too old to be a dancer, but he was quite convinced that there was a certain age when dancing should be excluded from the programme. It is an interesting question. There was a time when dancing was a general pastime, by no means limited to the more youthful members of society; in the spacious days when Vienna's glory was at its height, if we are to believe the evidence of plays and films on the subject, grey-haired men with waxed moustaches, and stately old women, all resembling the popular conception of a Duchess, used to glide and pirouette about marble halls until they had reached the very brink of their graves. Nowadays, since the inception of "jazz," older people regard modern dancing as an evidence of the baser instincts of man, and are continually deploring the inharmonious caterwauling which seems to form an essential accompaniment for it. Dancing in these times, with its twentieth century rhythmic posturings and foreign influences, has become essentially a pastime for the young people, and those members of the older generation who disport themselves in the modern ballrooms, as a rule, either look, or feel, extremely self-conscious. In America, dancing seems to have reached a further stage of evolution, and the craze for "jitterbug" dancing is likely to exclude, not only the aged and infirm from the pastime, but also the middle-aged members of society, and even a large proportion of the young people who are not in perfect training. In short, American dancing is rapidly becoming a business for the trained athlete, and soon it will be physically impossible for anybody of more than middle-age and robust physique to attempt it. As dancing in middle and old age decreases, it increases proportionally in extreme youth. In the Victorian era, when the older people were gliding about the ballrooms, young ladies never were allowed to dance until they had made their début, a ceremony which was not permitted to occur before the twenties, or, at any rate, the very late 'teens. Nowadays, young women of fourteen and fifteen are more at home in the ball-room than in the class-room.

Meals for Children

According to a recent report in our "London Letter," it seems that the London County Council is devoting some attention to the matter of food education for the school children. Miss M. C. Broatch, the London County Council's chief dietician, is in favour of the introduction of a system whereby every school child would receive at least some elementary education in the subject of food. She suggests that the British schools might, with advantage, follow American schools in this matter; in America every child receives school lessons on the vitamin content and the general value of food. While, admittedly, there is a certain amount of nonsense about this matter of vitamins, we are in full agreement with Miss Broatch that some effort should be made to inculcate into the children a sense of relative value with regard to the foods they are eating; most children, if left to their own devices, would eat foolishly, and, in most cases, their parents could do little to help them. More interesting still is the fact that more than five times as many hot mid-day meals are being served in London County Council schools than were being served before the war. At the moment one out of every four schools utilises the school canteens, and the aim of the County Council is to provide meals for every child attending school in the London County Council area. The report raises a corresponding question with regard to the supply of hot meals in Dublin schools. This question of late has faded into the background, mainly because, with the arrival of summer weather, hot meals are no longer necessary, and a plate of cold meat or a salad is more than adequate for the requirements of most children. Nevertheless, the question of hot meals for the school-children of Ireland should not be pushed into the background; now is the time to settle the details, so that when the bad weather again arrives there will be no need for an interminable delay while the "red tape" of officialdom settles the final details. There is no doubt now that the children should be furnished with hot meals; the question is how best it can be done, and we feel that now is the time to make decisions on the matter.

COLLEGE RACES
ENJOYABLE FUNCTION

One of the pleasantest social functions of the year took place yesterday when the College Races were held. The banks and paths in Trinity College Park were crowded with spectators, many of whom took this opportunity of renewing friendships of their college days. The attractive surroundings looked their best in the summer weather, and provided a fitting background for the bright colours of the women's dresses. Gay figured silk frocks with short sleeves were worn with elaborate flower-trimmed hats; long dresses were absent. A pre-war atmosphere was provided by a fair number of grey top hats worn by the men.

Later in the afternoon the crowds thinned out considerably and scattered to the various rooms where, according to tradition, undergraduates entertained their friends until late in the evening. The Civic Guard Band under the direction of Superintendent C. O'Donnell Sweeney, Mus.Bac., provided a programme of music during the function.

Among those present:—The Provost and Mrs. Alton, the Archbishop of Dublin and Mrs. Barton, Sir John Keane, Sir Arthur and Lady Ball, Lady Craig, Sir Robert Tate, Mr. J. M. Smokers' 'Fur'

How to detect it—How to prevent it

Try this now. Run your tongue round your mouth—do you notice it... a rough woolly feeling. Smokers' fur has got a hold, and is staining your teeth. But don't worry, you can stop this fur from ruining the look of your teeth.

Dentists know smokers' fur is caused by excess acid in the mouth. Kill the acid and you shift the fur. What is the scientific way to destroy mouth acid? 12,000 dentists say 'Milk of Magnesia' brand antacid is the most effective antacid known. They recommend smokers to use the tooth-paste containing 'Milk of Magnesia'—the only toothpaste containing it—Phillips' Dental Magnesia.

Commence fighting mouth acid tonight. Get a tube of Phillips' Dental Magnesia and clean your teeth with it each night and morning. Then you'll feel the difference; no more morning mouth; no more stale breath. Instead you'll have teeth which look clean, feel clean, are clean; a sweet mouth to give new zest to smoking. A mouth that will say Good morning! and mean it.

SENT TO A MENTAL HOSPITAL

CONVICTION ORDER QUASHED

MR. Justice Hanna, Mr. Justice Gavan Duffy and Mr. Justice Martin Maguire gave judgment in the High Court, Dublin, yesterday, in the certiorari motion to make absolute a conditional order directed to William Jones and Patrick J. Murray, Peace Commissioners for the City and County of Waterford, to bring into the High Court for the purpose of being quashed all records of their conviction of Kitty Power, aged thirty-one years, of Kill, who had been charged with assault, and their warrant committing her to Waterford Mental Hospital.

The Court quashed the order of conviction, but held that the warrant of committal was valid. They allowed costs to Dr. P. J. O'Doherty, acting Medical Superintendent of the Mental Hospital, and did not give costs against the Peace Commissioners.

It was stated that Miss Power had been arrested at Kill, County Waterford, by Civic Guard Sergeant Horgan while she was milking cows at her home on October 16 last, and brought to Waterford, sixteen miles away, where she was charged before Mr. Jones and Mr. Murray, with having struck Maureen Horgan, the twelve years old daughter of Sergeant Horgan, with an ash switch, and with having threatened to injure other children on other dates. Sergeant Horgan's evidence was that over a month before he had seen her following some children with a billhook in her hand, and that the children had complained that she had threatened to cut their heads off. Maureen Horgan and Margaret O'Keeffe, aged sixteen years, also gave evidence, and the Peace Commissioners convicted Miss Power and committed her to Waterford Mental Hospital. She was received in the hospital by Dr. P. J. O'Doherty, acting medical superintendent, on the warrant of the Commissioners, but was released on October 30th, on the application of her father and in consequence of a letter from her solicitor. Dr. O'Doherty had shown cause against the making of the conditional order absolute, but the Peace Commissioners had not.

THE JUDGMENT

In the course of his judgment, Mr. Justice Hanna said that as no cause had been shown by the Peace Commissioners, the conditional order, in so far as it dealt with the order of conviction, must be made absolute. Dealing with the grounds advanced in support of the motion to make the order absolute in respect of the committal warrant, Mr. Justice Hanna said that, in his opinion, none of the reasons advanced for having the warrant of committal quashed could succeed. Accordingly, the warrant on which Dr. O'Doherty had received Miss Power was valid, and Dr. O'Doherty was entitled to act on it. The Peace Commissioners were Peace Commissioners for the City and County of Waterford, and the fact that they had dealt in Waterford with matters occurring at Kill, which was in the court area of Kilmacthomas was irrelevant. Section 10 of the Lunatic Asylum Act, 1867, provided that a person could be brought before two justices of any county. The Commissioners had acted in conformity with the Section in calling to their assistance the medical officer of the dispensary district in which they were at the time.

To say that the committal warrant did not show that there was evidence that Miss Power had been discovered "under circumstances denoting a derangement of mind and a purpose to commit some indictable offence" seemed to him to be a travesty of the words of the Section. The words of the Section did not not even suggest that the warrant should show that. The warrant, in fact, complied with the Section more fully than required. There was evidence before the Commissioners to satisfy them that Miss Power came within the terms of the section, and he could not see how that Court could overrule the Commissioners' finding of fact. For these reasons he was of opinion that the committal warrant was valid and that the cause shown by Dr. O'Doherty should be allowed.

"DISQUIETING CASE"

"Perhaps," said Mr. Justice Gavan Duffy, "I take this melancholy example of amateur justice more seriously than it deserves, but small as it is, it led to the incarceration of Kitty Power for about a fortnight, as a 'dangerous idiot,' and I deem it of high importance to the community that our Peace Commissioners, exercising a most exceptional and difficult jurisdiction, should thoroughly appreciate the very serious degree of care which they must bring to it; on the other hand, provided they do their duty carefully and conscientiously, they can count on every sympathy from the High Court, and will certainly not find the judges inclined to find fault with them in the discharge of a thankless and very troublesome task." Alluding to the medical certificates, Mr. Justice Gavan Duffy said that he took the opportunity once more to call attention to the need in this country of a scientific classification of persons suffering from deficiency of mind, on the lines of the English Mental Deficiency Acts.

Mr. Justice Martin Maguire said that he agreed with the conclusions arrived at by Mr. Justice Hanna, and for the reasons given by him.

STOCK MARKETS

DUBLIN EXCHANGE

Irish securities attracted a fair measure of attention on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday, but some small liquidation caused prices to ease in places. British Industrials, for the most part, maintained their recent firmness.

Home Government Funds presented an idle appearance, and the trend was easier. The Second National Loan lost ¼ fraction, while Land Bonds issues tended lower 3½ per cent. War Loan held steady, and Dublin 4½ per cent. 1955/77 rose to 107¼.

Banks were dull for choice. Hibernians fell 1/- to 41/6, while Nationals and Provincial Old shed pence at 38/11½ and 40/- respectively. Royals made headway to 10⅞.

Guinness Units opened firm at 93/6, but later gave way to 93/-. Rails also moved against holders. Great Northern Ord. declined to 20⅝, while the Pref. eased to 39½ and the Deb. to 79½. Great Southern Ord. recovered to 37.

Agricultural Credit "A" Ord. changed hands at 10/4½. Alliance Gas Ord. were supported up to 20/6 and the Deb. to 102½. Bolands Deb. firmed up to 11.

In Draperies, Crowe Wilson Ord. dipped to 16/3, but Pim. Bros. Pref. spurted 2- to 15/- and Arnott issues held steady. Irish Times 1st Pref. jumped 3/- to 25/-, while Goodbody Pref. and Brooks Thomas Pref. tended higher.

Imperial Tobacco Ord. hardened to 126/9, and Courtauld Ord. advanced to 54/9. Ford Motors changed hands up to 25/4½, but Imperial Chemical Ord. were dull at 33/-. Vickers Ord. quoted 16/6 and Austin "A" Ord. 16/10½.

LONDON EXCHANGE

A fair amount of business was transacted yesterday on London Stock Exchange, when the tone was again quite good. The Anglo-American pooling arrangement had a good effect. Gilts strengthened further, due to a shortage of stock.

Profit-taking towards the close caused some of the leading Industrials to lose early gains. Breweries were well maintained, with Guinness closing at 93/- and Bass at 149/-. The Stores group displayed firmness, and among Rayons Courtaulds gained 9d.

Kaffir non-producers, Diamonds and West Africans were rather easier, but firm conditions prevailed in other sections of the Mining market. There was a fresh advance in finance descriptions, Consolidated Gold Fields at 1½ and General Mining at 3½ both improving ⅛.

A burst of strength was seen in the Oil share market at the opening. Burmahs were particularly prominent during the morning, being bid up to 1½, but later the price receded to 1⅛. Anglo-Iranians left off with a loss of ⅛ at 2⅜.

The undertone of Rubbers was very firm, and some fairly substantial rises were recorded.

COMPANY MEETING.

DUNLOP RUBBER COMPANY

INCREASED TURNOVER

THE forty-third ordinary general meeting of the Dunlop Rubber Co., Ltd., was held yesterday at the Piccadilly Hotel, London, Sir J. George Beharrel, D.S.O. (the Chairman) presiding.

The following are extracts from the statement of the Chairman circulated with the report and accounts:—

The year 1941 saw the steadily increasing adaptation of British Manufacturing industry to meet the needs of the nation's war effort. Government regulations for the limitation of supplies reduced the volume of our business in certain lines, but the demands for others were considerably expanded. The company's factories were satisfactorily occupied until the end of the year and total turnover increased though profit margins were lower.

In spite of the closing of practically all the company's European markets and steadily increasing difficulties in regard to export licences and transport our overseas trade resulted in a fair profit. The overseas Dunlop factories outside enemy control showed satisfactory results, the Indian and South African companies and the Dunlop Tire and Rubber Corporation of America having record sales and trading profits.

Unfortunately, the extension of the war in the Far East at the end of the year changed the situation and the immediate outlook for your company. This new factor must be borne in mind in considering the accounts and the directors' recommendation.

The net profit for the year amounted to £3,186,000, compared with £3,002,000 for 1940. The provision for taxation amounts to £4,085,000 for the group as a whole. The board feels that a policy of conserving and strengthening the company's financial position is necessary and has, therefore, allocated to contingencies reserve the sum of £100,000. A dividend on the Ordinary stock of 8 per cent. is recommended.

THE OUTLOOK

It is difficult to comment usefully on the outlook, but stockholders must have realised that recent events in the Far East have materially affected the company's position for the immediate future. We are doing all we can to ease the position by the extended use of reclaimed rubber, and we are benefiting by the foresight of your board in having established early last year additional plant for the re-treading of tyres. It seems, however, that we must be prepared for a substantial reduction of sales, both in the home and overseas markets, and our overseas manufacturing companies will be similarly affected, some more, some less, than ourselves. This situation we are endeavouring to relieve by finding useful forms of manufacture to occupy the floor space which is likely to be left empty, and by economising expenditure in every possible way.

Your board has every confidence that the company will weather the storm and continue to uphold the great position which it has won for itself in the trade of the world.

The report was adopted.

Another Big Collins-Wing Day

M. C. COLLINS, trainer, and M. Wing, jockey, fairly swept the board at The Curragh yesterday, the former training and the latter riding five winners; while H. M. Hartigan saddled the winners of the other two races. Three of the Conyngham Lodge stable's winners are owned by Mr. Joe McGrath. The Irish 1,000 Guineas, the second of the season's classic races, was won in easy style by the Aga Khan's Majideh, an odds-on favourite, who stayed on too well for Fairest, who was easily second-best.

In all, six favourites scored during the afternoon, the one upset being when Mount Leinster, in a close finish for the Maddenstown Plate, beat Ballynure by half-a-length. Mr. J. McLean's Poolfix had to be ridden hard to dispose of Foam Crest in the Scurry Plate; but Stop It had the Brownstown Selling Plate won a long way from home. The consistent Cameron put in another fine performance when winning The Curragh Plate under an impost of 9st. 10lb. Details:—
